Application

(Where the application is an application for judicial review)

This is an application for judicial review in respect of Attorney General of Canada.

On February 17, 2022, the Minister sent notice by way of a pdf letter titled Second review for your Canada Recovery Benefit application. In it the Minister clearly states that after a carefully considered second review of my eligibility for the Canada Recovery Benefit (CRB) my application had been denied. The letter further states “You did not earn at least $5,000 (before taxes) of employment or net self-employment income in 2019, 2020, or in the 12 months before the date of your first application.”

The applicant makes application for: Any or all of the following - a second independent review of my application, a reversal of the denial and acceptance of the application, any other remedy the court sees fit.

The grounds for the application are: Although a second independent review is required, none occurred. Further, a full and complete set of supporting documents were sent to the CRA. Further, in addition to the required documents to support the application, additional documents excluded from a list of required supporting documents were sent to CRA in support of the application.

This application will be supported by the following material: Original application for the CRB. Invoice for work done. Cheque issued for the work done. Bank deposit for the previous cheque. Notes of calls from CRA.

The applicant requests Canada Revenue Agency to send a certified copy of the following material that is not in the possession of the applicant but is in the possession of the Canada Revenue Agency to the applicant and to the Registry: Any and all notes relating to the CRB application. Any and all governing material, including but not limited to policy's, directions, or procedures related to this specific CRB application as well all policy's, directions, or procedures related to any CRB applications. The documents in the CRA's possession which were sent by the applicant in regard to this CRB application.
