APPEAL

THE APPELLANT APPEALS to the Federal Court of Appeal from the Order of The Honourable Justice Dominique Lafleur of the Tax Court of Canada (the “Motion Judge”) dated November 1, 2022 (the “Order”) in the matter of Adboss, Ltd. v H.M.K., 2022 TCC 125 (court file no: 2021-586(GST)G) by which the Motion Judge granted an interlocutory motion of striking a specific subparagraph of the Crown’s reply to the notice of appeal.

THE APPELLANT ASKS that this Honourable Court allow this appeal with costs in this Court and that the Order be set aside, with this Court granting the order that should have been given at the Tax Court, that the respondent’s motion to strike be dismissed with costs to the appellant in the aggregate lump sum of $6,000.00 for this matter and for the matters of Bluecove Management Ltd. v. H.M.K., 2022 TCC 126 (court file no: 2021-587(GST)G) and Liberty Street Management Inc. v. H.M.K., 2022 TCC 127 (court file no: 2021-588(GST)G), payable forthwith and in any event the cause.

THE GROUNDS OF APPEAL are as follows:

1. the Motion Judge made a reviewable error by incorrectly identifying and applying the legal test for striking pleadings, and specifically:
 - a. the Motion Judge made an error of law in holding that the location of a company’s central management and control are matters of mixed fact and law and so could not be included as an assumption of fact made by the Minister pursuant to paragraph 49(1)(d) of the Tax Court of Canada Rules. Central management and control of a corporation is a question is a question of fact and can be pleaded as such pursuant to paragraph 49(1)(d) of the Rules; and

- b. alternatively, even if the question of central management and control is a matter of mixed fact and law, the Motion Judge made an error law in holding that the Minister's conclusion on the question of central management and control could not be pleaded pursuant to paragraph 49(1)(d) of the Rules where the constituent elements of the Minister's conclusion were also pleaded as assumptions of fact;
2. such further and other grounds as counsel may advise and this Honourable Court may allow.
