OVERVIEW

3. From 1992 to 2017, the Canadian Armed Forces and the Department of National Defence ordered thousands of members of the Canadian Armed Forces (“CAF Members”) to take the anti-malarial drug Mefloquine before and while being deployed to malaria-endemic regions.
4. Mefloquine is a potent psychotropic anti-malarial drug that can cause severe and potentially permanent neurological and psychological health harms. The drug manufacturer warns that Mefloquine can cause prolonged and sometimes permanent severe mental problems including anxiety, paranoia, depression, hallucinations, suicidal thoughts, and mood disorders, and severe nervous system problems including dizziness, vertigo, issues with balance, tinnitus, seizures and insomnia.
5. The consequences of the Government of Canada’s decision to force its military personnel to take Mefloquine has been disastrous. The Government of Canada sent CAF Members to active combat zones while suffering from Mefloquine-induced psychosis, rages, paranoia, and hallucinations that at times made it impossible to separate reality from fantasy. CAF Members’ Mefloquine-induced mental health issues were compounded by other combat-related mental health issues including post-traumatic stress disorder.
6. The Government of Canada continued to force CAF Members to take Mefloquine on pain of court martial even after CAF Members reported severe adverse reactions in spite of the drug manufacturer’s warning that anyone experiencing adverse reactions must immediately cease taking the drug.

7. Hundreds of CAF Members have returned home with long term and in many cases permanent disabilities caused by Mefloquine that have ruined marriages, families, job prospects and lives. CAF Members describe suffering debilitating mood issues, aggression, bouts of explosive anger, violent behavior, night terrors, panic attacks, anxiety, paranoia, hallucinations, suicidal thoughts, psychotic behavior, memory loss, depression, convulsions and more. Tragically, Mefloquine toxicity has been a major factor in the suicide crisis currently plaguing military veterans and their families.
8. The above harms were entirely avoidable. The Government of Canada always had alternative anti-malarial drugs available to it that posed none of the severe neurological or psychological health risks of Mefloquine.
9. This lawsuit is one of several brought by hundreds of current and former CAF Members against the Government of Canada for harms caused by being forced to take Mefloquine.

THE PARTIES

The Defendant

10. The Defendant is His Majesty the King in Right of Canada (the “Government” or “Canada”). The Department of National Defence (“DND”) and the Canadian Armed Forces (“CAF”) are the departments in the Government of Canada that are responsible for implementing government decisions concerning the operation and management of the Canadian military.

The Plaintiffs

11. The Plaintiffs are all members or former members of the CAF who were ordered to take the anti-malarial drug Mefloquine, and who have suffered serious harms as a result (the “Plaintiffs”) or their family members (“Family Plaintiff(s)"). The Plaintiffs also include non-CAF Members who were under the CAF chain of command while deployed abroad. These Plaintiffs were either civilian contractors for the CAF, or officers in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or other provincial or municipal police services who deployed abroad in support of CAF or UN missions. These Plaintiffs are: Mark Edward Hustins, Jamail Jushan, Lorant Junior Hegedus, Randolph Peacock, Ian Michael Petrie, and Randall Scott Noseworthy.

12. A reference in this pleading to a “CAF Member” includes these non-CAF Members who were under the CAF chain of command while deployed abroad. The allegations set out in the pleading apply mutatis mutandis to the circumstances of these non-CAF Members.

Nature of relationship between Canada and the Plaintiffs

13. CAF Members are in a uniquely dependent and vulnerable relationship with the CAF and DND. CAF and DND have an extraordinarily high level of control over the lives of CAF Members. When CAF Members enroll in the military, they are subject to its hierarchical and authoritarian culture and command structure until such time as they are discharged. CAF Members are by law required to obey all lawful commands and orders of a superior officer on pain of court martial. Section 126 of the National Defence Act specifically requires CAF Members to obey all orders to submit to inoculation, vaccination and other medical treatments against infectious diseases; failure to follow such orders is punishable by up to two years imprisonment.

BACKGROUND

Mefloquine

14. Mefloquine, sometimes sold under the brand name Lariam, is a potent psychotropic anti-malarial drug that can cause severe and potentially permanent neurological and psychological health harms.

15. The manufacturer of Mefloquine has long recognized the health risks posed by Mefloquine, including the potential for long-lasting adverse neurological and psychological events that can last for years after stopping the medication. The manufacturer of the drug currently provides the following Health Canada-mandated warning regarding the potential for serious negative side effects on its product information sheet:

MEFLOQUINE can cause serious mental problems in some people. These serious side effects may occur suddenly and may last for months to years after stopping MEFLOQUINE. Symptoms of serious mental problems may include:

- anxiety
- unreasonable feeling that people are trying to harm you, do not like you, etc. (Paranoia)
- depression
- seeing or hearing things that are not there (hallucinations)
- thought of suicide or harming yourself
- feeling restless
- feeling confused
- unusual behavior

MEFLOQUINE can cause serious nervous system problems in some people. Symptoms of serious nervous system problems may include:

- dizziness
- a feeling that you or things around you are moving or spinning (vertigo)
- loss of balance
- ringing sound in your ears (tinnitus)
- convulsions (seizures) in people who already have seizures (epilepsy)
- unable to sleep (insomnia)

These serious mental and nervous system side effects may occur at any time while you are taking MEFLOQUINE, may last for months or years after stopping MEFLOQUINE, and in some cases may become permanent in some people.

16. The drug manufacturer also clearly states that Mefloquine must not be used by anyone who have currently, or in the past, suffered from any mental health illness that affects mood, thinking and behavior such as depression, anxiety, psychosis, or schizophrenia.
17. The drug manufacturer also clearly states that individuals who suffer any of the following symptoms after taking Mefloquine must stop taking the drug and get immediate medical help:
 - a. mental problems, including anxiety, depression, paranoia, hallucinations, feeling restless, confused or disoriented, unusual behavior or changes to mood;
 - b. nervous system changes, including dizziness, spinning, ringing in the ears, loss of balance, seizures or convulsions; or
 - c. issues with nerves, including prickling or tingling sensations, numbness and loss of an ability to feel pain or changes in temperature, a burning or sharp pain, loss of balance or co-ordination, feeling pain from a very light touch, and muscle weakness or paralysis.
18. The drug manufacturer also warns that Mefloquine can negatively interact with alcohol and consuming alcohol while on Mefloquine increases the risk of experiencing mental problems.
19. Because of the risk of the above serious adverse effects, Mefloquine should only be prescribed after a qualified health care professional conducts an individual risk assessment.

The use of Mefloquine in the Canadian Armed Forces

20. Mefloquine was developed in a US military research facility in the 1970s. By the early 1990s, Mefloquine was the anti-malarial drug of choice for the Canadian military.

21. The drug was first issued to CAF Members during the 1992-1993 mission to Somalia. At the time, Mefloquine was not licenced in Canada, and the drug was given to CAF Members as part of a botched clinical trial, in which CAF failed to implement or follow proper protocols for clinical trials, and failed to obtain informed consent from CAF Members.
22. Throughout the 1990s and continuing until 2003, over 90% of CAF Members who were deployed in regions where there was a risk of contracting malaria were ordered to take Mefloquine. Between 2004 and 2009, the rate of prescription of Mefloquine to CAF Members serving in malarial regions was approximately 50%. By 2016, that number dropped to less than 2%. In June 2017, DND announced that Mefloquine would no longer be prescribed unless either a CAF Member requests it, or as a last resort if it is not possible to prescribe other anti-malarial drugs because of contraindications.
23. From its initial use in 1992, the CAF ordered CAF Members to take Mefloquine in a number of deployments around the world including to Somalia, Cambodia, Mozambique, Papua New Guinea, Central African Republic, Western Sahara, Rwanda, Angola, Ethiopia, Eritrea, Sierra Leone, Democratic Republic of Congo, East Timor and Afghanistan. In total, CAF ordered approximately 18,000 CAF Members to take Mefloquine.

CAF Members ordered to take Mefloquine without screening and despite reports of side effects

24. Despite the fact that the Government knew that individuals at risk or with a history of psychological disorders should not take Mefloquine, CAF did not conduct any individualized screening of CAF Members before requiring them to take Mefloquine. As a result, many of the CAF Members who the Defendant ordered to take Mefloquine had a history of anxiety, depression or post-traumatic stress disorder (“PTSD”).

25. Despite the fact that the Government knew that CAF Members should immediately stop taking Mefloquine if they suffered any of a number of neurological, psychiatric or neuropathic symptoms, the Government did not have in place any mechanism for reporting of or screening for such symptoms. On the contrary, even in instances where CAF Members reported symptoms, these reports were ignored, and the CAF Members in question were ordered to continue taking Mefloquine. In a particularly high profile instance, Lieutenant-General Romeo Dallaire (Ret'd) reported to DND headquarters that he was suffering from side effects from Mefloquine including issues with memory and thought process. In spite of this report, Lieutenant-General Dallaire was ordered to continue to take the drug, and told if he did not he would be court martialed.
26. Throughout, CAF and DND failed to keep records of reports of adverse reactions or side effects resulting from Mefloquine made by CAF Members.

CAF Members suffer serious side effects and problems

27. CAF Members who were forced by the Government to take Mefloquine have reported serious neurological and psychiatric side effects caused by Mefloquine including debilitating mood issues, aggression, bouts of explosive anger, violent behavior, night terrors, panic attacks, anxiety, paranoia, hallucinations, suicidal thoughts, psychotic behavior, memory loss, depression, convulsions, dizziness, vertigo, tinnitus, loss of balance and more.
28. The neurological and psychiatric side effects caused by Mefloquine have had catastrophic impacts on the lives of hundreds of CAF Members and their families. The neurological and psychiatric damage done by Mefloquine has lead to suicide, ruined marriages, lost jobs, homes and families, permanent disability, and ruined lives.

Continued denial of problem by the Government

29. Throughout the relevant period, and up to the present time, the Government has and continues to, on both an individual and systemic level, wilfully deny and conceal the risks posed by Mefloquine to CAF Members. This willful concealment includes, but is not limited to the following:
- a. DND and CAF has consistently denied any risk post by Mefloquine to CAF Members.
 - b. The Government prematurely shut down the Commission of Inquiry into the Deployment of Canadian Forces to Somalia prior to it being able to consider Mefloquine.
 - c. In 1999, representatives of the Government testified at the House of Commons Standing Committee on Public Accounts. A representative from Health Canada stated that it “was confident that when used properly, Lariam is a drug that is safe and effective.” A representative from the Department of National Defence testified that Mefloquine has an “established record of safety and efficacy” and “was and is a safe and very effective anti-malarial drug,” and “neither the health nor the safety of Canadian Forces personnel were compromised.”
 - d. In 2016, the Surgeon General Brigadier, General Hugh MacKay, told the House of Commons Veterans Affairs Committee that he did not think there was sound science behind the assertion that the drug has long-term side effects.
 - e. In 2017, DND and CAF released a “Surgeon General Report on Mefloquine” written by the Surgeon General’s Task Force on Mefloquine. This report continued to deny and willfully conceal the risks posed by Mefloquine, stating “[w]e did not identify any evidence (that met our inclusion criteria) addressing potential long term adverse effects of Mefloquine or other MCP agents on health.”
 - f. In 2017, Health Canada stated that there was limited evidence supporting that long-lasting and permanent neurological and psychiatric adverse events are caused by the use of Mefloquine.

- g. In June 2017, a subset of the Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs issued a supplementary report Mental Health of Canadian Veterans in which it recommended that “the Government of Canada, in cooperation with all federal, provincial and international institutions concerned, initiate an independent research program to study the long term neurotoxicity of Mefloquine. The research program should be in place no later than 12 months from the day the report is tabled in the House of Commons.” This recommendation was not adopted by the Government.

CAUSES OF ACTION

1472. Pursuant to s. 3 of the Crown Liability and Proceedings Act, R.S.C., 1985, c. C-50, the Defendant is directly and vicariously liable for any wrongs committed by DND, CAF or any of its employees and agents.

Negligence

1473. The Government owed a duty of care to CAF Members. The Government knew or ought to have known that if it carried out its duties negligently, it could reasonably cause the kind of harm that was in fact suffered by the Plaintiffs.

1474. The Government was required to:

- a. use reasonable care to ensure the safety and well-being of the Plaintiffs;
- b. obtain the informed consent of the Plaintiffs before requiring them to take Mefloquine; and
- c. use reasonable care in the operation, administration, prescribing, dispensing, managing, supervising, and monitoring of the use of Mefloquine.

1475. The Government breached that duty of care by:

- a. ordering the Plaintiffs, on pain of court martial, to take a drug that it knew or ought to have known was not safe and could have serious and long term adverse health effects;
- b. ordering the Plaintiffs to take Mefloquine without conducting a proper medical screening for contraindications;
- c. failing to provide a medication guide or other information to the Plaintiffs regarding the proper use of Mefloquine;
- d. failing to adequately warn the Plaintiffs of the risks associated with taking Mefloquine;
- e. failing to warn the Plaintiffs not to consume alcohol while taking Mefloquine because of the risk of adverse interactions with alcohol, including the greatly increased risk of experiencing mental problems;
- f. failing to tell the Plaintiffs to immediately stop taking Mefloquine if they experienced any of the following symptoms: mental problems, including anxiety, depression, paranoia, hallucinations, feeling restless, confused or disoriented, unusual behavior or changes to mood; nervous system changes, including dizziness, spinning, ringing in the ears, loss of balance, seizures or convulsions; or issues with nerves, including prickling or tingling sensations, numbness and loss of an ability to feel pain or changes in temperature, a burning or sharp pain, loss of balance or co-ordination, feeling pain from a very light touch, or muscle weakness or paralysis;
- g. ordering the Plaintiffs to continue taking Mefloquine after the above symptoms were reported;
- h. failing to monitor or record adverse reactions and complications experienced by the Plaintiffs and other CAF Members as a result of taking Mefloquine;

- i. failing to properly investigate the side effects, adverse reactions and complications experienced by the Plaintiffs and other CAF Members as a result of taking Mefloquine;
 - j. failing to consider and account for the risk of interaction of Mefloquine with other psychological conditions and injuries commonly experienced by CAF Members including anxiety, depression, post-traumatic stress disorder and traumatic brain injury;
 - k. failing to provide and/or consider suitable alternative anti-malarial drugs to Mefloquine;
 - l. requiring that the Plaintiffs take an anti-malarial drug that was unsuitable for use in a military or combat setting;
 - m. failing to provide necessary medical treatment to the Plaintiffs in a timely manner;
 - n. failing to refer the Plaintiffs to appropriate medical specialists in a timely manner, or at all;
 - o. failing to administer Mefloquine to the Plaintiffs in a safe and competent manner;
 - p. putting its own interests ahead of the interest of the Plaintiffs by ignoring and remaining wilfully blind to the risks of Mefloquine to individual CAF Members; and
 - q. such further and other particulars as may become apparent and counsel may advise.
1476. As a result of the Government's breach of its duty of care, the Plaintiffs suffered damages as set out below.

Negligent Misrepresentation

1477. The Plaintiffs were highly dependent on information provided by the Government regarding the risks posed by Mefloquine. The Government knew that the Plaintiffs would rely on information provided by DND and CAF to the Plaintiffs in order to make decisions regarding risks to their health and safety.
1478. DND and CAF repeatedly represented to the Plaintiffs and CAF Members as a whole that Mefloquine was safe. These representations specifically downplayed or denied the risks associated with Mefloquine and were inaccurate, incomplete, false, deceptive and/or misleading.

1479. Canada knew or ought to have known that the representations made by CAF and DND regarding the safety of Mefloquine were inaccurate, incomplete, false, deceptive and/or misleading.

1480. The Plaintiffs state that Canada owed a duty of care to the Plaintiffs and is liable in deceit and/or negligent misrepresentation for the Representations that were inaccurate, incomplete, false, deceptive and/or misleading and as a result of which the Plaintiffs' suffered damages as set out below.

Breach of Fiduciary Duty

1481. The Government owed the Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty. The relationship between the Plaintiffs and the Defendant is one of complete trust, reliance and dependency. While in the Canadian Armed Forces, the Government had extraordinary and unilateral powers over the lives of CAF Members. Because of the hierarchical and authoritarian command structure of the CAF, the binding nature of enrolment in the CAF, the oaths and declarations required by CAF Members, and the strict requirement to follow all orders of superiors, the Plaintiffs were in a position of complete vulnerability and dependence on the CAF and DND. In particular, the Plaintiffs were at the Government's mercy regarding what drugs they were ordered to take prior to and during deployment. Prior to and while deployed, the Government was solely responsible for the protection of the health, safety and well-being of the Plaintiffs.

1482. The Government breached its fiduciary duties to the Plaintiffs. The particulars of the breach include:

- a. putting its own interests ahead of the interest of the Plaintiffs by ignoring and remaining wilfully blind to the risks of Mefloquine to individual CAF Members;
- b. ordering the Plaintiffs to take Mefloquine;
- c. ordering the Plaintiffs to take Mefloquine without conducting a proper medical screening for contraindications;
- d. ordering the Plaintiffs to continue taking Mefloquine after adverse symptoms were reported; and
- e. failing to safeguard the physical and psychological health of the CAF Members.

Charter claim (breach of s. 7)

1483. The Government's action in forcing the Plaintiffs to take a drug that seriously impaired the Plaintiff's mental and physical health and caused severe psychological harm is an infringement of the Plaintiff's right to security of the person as enshrined in s. 7 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. This infringement is not justified in accordance with the principles of fundamental justice.

1484. The breaches of the Plaintiffs' Charter rights are not demonstrably justified in a free and democratic society.

1485. The Plaintiffs are entitled to a declaration that their Charter rights were infringed.

1486. The Plaintiffs are also entitled to a monetary remedy pursuant to section 24(1) of the Charter in order to:

- a. compensate the Plaintiffs for pain and suffering;
- b. vindicate the Plaintiffs' fundamental human rights; and

c. deter systematic violations of a similar nature by the Government in future.

Battery

1487. The Plaintiffs assert that the forced ingestion of Mefloquine without their informed consent, in the circumstances pleaded above, amounts to battery.

Wilful Concealment

1488. The Government has and continues to willfully conceal the fact that the injuries suffered by the Plaintiffs were caused by the fact that the Government ordered the Plaintiffs to take Mefloquine.

Mental and psychological state

1489. The Plaintiffs have suffered severe and debilitating mental and psychological conditions as described above as a result of taking Mefloquine and otherwise. As a result of these severe and debilitating mental and psychological conditions, the Plaintiffs were previously incapable of commencing a claim against the Defendant.

Misdiagnosis

1490. The Plaintiffs have been misdiagnosed by doctors, including doctors employed by the Government, as suffering only PTSD or Traumatic Brain Injuries, when in fact, the Plaintiffs were suffering from neurological and psychological injuries caused by Mefloquine.

DAMAGES

1491. The Plaintiffs have suffered at the hands of the Government, and are entitled to damages, including pecuniary and non-pecuniary general damages, special damages and aggravated, exemplary and punitive damages.

1492. Both before and after the Government ordered CAF Members to take Mefloquine, the Government knew or ought to have known that Mefloquine can cause, contribute to, or materially increase the risk of neurological and psychological harm.
1493. As a result of being forced to take Mefloquine, the Plaintiffs have suffered and continue to suffer prolonged psychological symptoms, including anxiety, paranoia, depression, hallucinations, thoughts of suicide or self harm, aggression, bouts of explosive anger, violent behavior, night terrors, panic attacks, memory loss, and a lack of emotional regulation.
1494. As a result of being forced to take Mefloquine, the Plaintiffs have suffered and continue to suffer prolonged neurological symptoms including dizziness, vertigo, loss of balance, tinnitus, convulsions and insomnia.
1495. As a result of being forced to take Mefloquine, the Plaintiffs have suffered and continue to suffer prolonged neuropathological symptoms including prickling or tingling sensations, numbness and loss of an ability to feel pain or changes in temperature, a burning or sharp pain, loss of balance or co-ordination, feeling pain from a very light touch, and muscle weakness or paralysis.
1496. As a result of the actions, errors and omissions of the Government as set out above, the Plaintiffs suffered damages including:
- a. Creation or exacerbation of neurological disorders and illnesses, including damage to the brain stem and nervous system;
 - b. Creation or exacerbation of psychological disorders and illnesses;
 - c. Creation or exacerbation of neuropathological disorders and illnesses;

- d. Emotional and psychological harm and distress;
 - e. Impairment of mental and emotional health;
 - f. Impairment of ability to participate in or transition to a normal family life, including alienation from family, spouses and children;
 - g. Impairment of ability to perform household chores and to perform certain daily tasks;
 - h. Impairment of ability to participate in recreational, school, social, and athletic activities;
 - i. Impairment of the capacity to function in the work place and a corresponding loss of income, a loss of competitive advantage in the employment field and a diminution of income earning capacity;
 - j. Pain and suffering, a loss of enjoyment of life and a loss of amenities; and
 - k. Such further and other harms and injuries as shall be discovered and/or particularized.
1497. As a further result of the injuries suffered, the Plaintiffs have incurred, and will continue to incur expenses, including expenses for: hospitalization, medication, therapy, rehabilitation, medical treatment, and other forms of care and out-of-pocket expenses, the full particulars of which are not within the Plaintiffs' knowledge at this time.

Punitive, Aggravated and Exemplary Damages

1498. The Government forced the Plaintiffs, on pain of court martial and imprisonment, to take a drug that has caused great neurological and psychological damage. The Canadian Government treated the issue surrounding Mefloquine with wanton and callous disregard for the Plaintiffs' interests, health, safety and well-being. Canada has responded to the growing crisis regarding Mefloquine toxicity within the military veteran community by concealing, denying and downplaying the problem, even as those suffering from Mefloquine toxicity continue to die by suicide.

1499. Canada's wrongful conduct is of such a reprehensible nature as to warrant an award of aggravated, exemplary and/or punitive damages in order to deter Canada from taking such wrongful acts in the future.

Provincial Health Insurers

1500. As a consequence of the misconduct set out above, OHIP and the comparable provincial and territorial health insurers have incurred various expenses with respect to the medical treatment of the Plaintiffs. As such, OHIP and other provincial and territorial health insurers have suffered, and will continue to suffer, damages including the ongoing medical support for the Plaintiffs, and they are entitled to be compensated by virtue of their subrogated and direct rights of action in respect of all past and future insured services. This action is maintained on behalf of OHIP and all other provincial and territorial health insurers.

APPLICABLE LEGISLATION

1501. The Plaintiffs plead and rely upon the following:

Federal Courts Act, R.S.C., 1985, c. F-7;

Federal Courts Rules, (SOR/98-106);

Crown Liability and Proceedings Act, R.S.C., 1985, c. C-50, ss. 3, 21, 22, and 23;

Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, ss. 7 and 24;

National Defence Act, R.S.C., 1985, c. N-5; and 1502. The Plaintiffs propose that this action be tried at Toronto, Ontario.
